Social Distinctives of the Christians in the First Century ...

Judge was the first in scholarship after the mid-twentieth century to clarify early Christian ideals about society by defining what the social institutions of the broader cultural context were and how they influenced the social institutions of the early Christian communities. Judge points out that earlier scholars had entered into this field of inquiry, but that, in general, they failed due to the lack of careful definitions of the Greco-Roman social institutions at the time based on a Chapter 1 (The Social Pattern of the Christian Groups in the First Century) consists of a number of sections dealing with interpreting New Testament ideas, Republican institutions (politeia), the household community (oikonomia), unofficial institutions (koinonia), the social constituency of Christian groups, legal proceedings involving Christians, and ideas of social obligation.
